Top Irish Broadcaster Choose Brandon's Operating Theatre Lights for Medical Documentary

RTE have chosen to use Brandon's Galaxy range of Operating lights for an Irish language medical documentary which will be broadcast to the nation. Scannell, the Irish current affairs programme has produced a show on the Dr Neary hysterectomy scandal. The director of this program, Kevin Burns, requested Brandon's Operating Lights to be used in the background to set the scene for the interviewing of the different participants.

The Galaxy Ultra range offers ultra high performance, visual and physical comfort and are easy and versatile to use. Whatever the requirement, Galaxy Ultra can be configured to meet it. The whole system is designed as a set of modular components that can be built into a vast range of specifications.

Commenting on RTE's decision to use the Brandon lighting system, Maurice Quail, Brennan & Co product manager said "We are delighted that we can help RTE in producing this documentary. The Brandon design is not only technically sound but is also aesthetically pleasing."

Scannell will be aired to the nation this autumn.
